If you will consult Appleton's American Cyclowill consult Appleton's American Cyclopedia, ed. 1883 (art. Crashaw), you will see that it has been attributed to Milton and Dryden, and that the English translation usually given is not exact. As written originally in Latin it was "Lympha pudica Deum vidit et crubuit." (The modest water saw its God and blushed.) There is a copy of Crashaw's writings in the State Library to which you can refer. It seems proper to say, though, that Crashaw himself translated "pudica" by conscious. THE ALOE PLANT.

Have you heard the tale of the Aloe Plant.

That grows in the sunny clime?

By humble growth of an hundred years

It reaches its blooming time;

And then a wondrous bud at its crown

Breaks into a thousand flowers.

This floral queen, in its blooming seen,

Is the pride of the tropical bowers;

But the plant to the flower is a sacrifice,

For it blooms but once, and in blooming dies.

Have you further heard of this Aloe

Away in the sunny clime,
How every one of its thousand flowers,
As they drop in the blooming time,
Is an infant plant that fastens its roots
In the place where it falls on the ground;
And fast as they drop from the dying

Grow lively and lovely around? By dying it liveth a thousandfold In the young that spring from the death of the old.

Have you heard the tale of the Pelican,
The Arab's Gimel el Bahr,
That dwells in the African solitudes
Where the birds that live lonely are?
Have you heard(how it loves its tender

And cares and tolls for their good;

How it brings them water from fountains

And fishes the seas for their food?

since recognized the fallacy of at-tempting to cure a drinking man of his intemperate habits by moral sua-tempting to cure a drinking man of his intemperate habits by moral suasion. Drunkenness is a disease, and no disease is more common and so seldom recognized. A victim of the drink habit can no more resist liquor than a man with ague can resist shivering.

The terrible craving for liquor is a symptom of disease, and to overcome it the disease itself should be treated in a scientific way. When one has used whiskey, beer or other stimulants for a long time, the nerve cells have become accustomed to the effects of the stimulants, and demand liquor in order to perform their duties. If the nerve cells are properly treated, the craving for liquor will be destroyed.

This is far too practical an age for "faith cure" fallacies. It will not now be contended by many sane persons that organic diseases can be cured by mental processes.

In the last few years a scientific treatment called Orrine has made many remarkable cures of alcoholism or Inchriety, or, to use the worst term, drunkenness. So uniformly successful has Orrine been that it is sold under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure the habit. What better evidence than this can be offered as to its power to destroy all craying for strong drink.

in food or drink. In this way the wife or mother can save the husband or son and change the drunkard, without his knowledge, into a sober, prosperous man. Orrine No. 2. in pill form, is for those who wish to be cured of their habit, and should be taken by every one who swore off at New Year's.

No matter which form of Orrine is used the guarantee is the same. If taken according to directions it will permanently detroy the crawing for liquer or the purchase money will be refunded.

"In the three years that we have been handling Orrine, many individual cases have come under our notice where the preparation has been used with great success. Mothers and sisters have told us of husbands and brothers who, since they were given Orrine, in most cases without their knowledge, all desire for drink seems to have disappeared, and much comfort and joy has now appeared in once desolate homes. We have never had anything but what was good to say about Orrine, and have previously written you from time to time of our absolute confidence in it. As a rule, we do not care to handle such preparationss, and until the agency for Orrine was given us, we took no notice of preparations of like nature. We feel sure that in handling this preparation we are doing a great deal of good. We have absolute confidence in Orrine, and it is a pleasure for us to recommend and vouch for its merit."

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our deally dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifler," tonic and cure-all, and, mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good but the remedy was crude and unpatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect. Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate-coated pellets, and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver and excretory organs, and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed ns with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles, and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises pattent and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedles, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malarin, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers, and sold by druggists, a Mrs. Neuronr, of Washington, D. Trespass of Animals.

Trespass of Animals.

1st A's hogs got out of his pasture and went on a piece of land cultivated by a penant of B's. The tenant sent off several miles and got dogs and caught them and put them up and charged A for catching them. Can said tenant recover the amount charged by law?

2d. When one farmer's stock trespasses on another farmer's land and he sues him for trespass, does the amount recovered go to the man who brought the action or does it go to the State?

A SUESCRIBER.

1st It would depend on whether or not the "no fence" law was in force in this particular section. This entire matter—the question of when such a thing is a trespass, the amount of damages that can be recovered, etc.—is fully regulated by sections 208, 2042, 2048, ets., of the Code of Virginia.
